TRANSFER TO B.C. MISSION

Farwell services for Capt. and Mrs. F. Watson of the Salvation Army will take place at the Coleman Citadel on Sunday next at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. The local officers will leave early next week for Glen Vowell, B.C., for missionary work among the Indians of that district, which is located inland from Prince Rupert and about six miles out of Hazelton.

No word has as yet been received concerning their successors, but this will be forthcoming soon.

A special Mothers' Day service has been arranged for the afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. R. Holmes will be conducting this meeting, at which the young people will take a prominent part. Mrs. A. Rhodes, of Bellevue, will be the guest speaker. A presentation will be made to the mother with the most children present. All ladies, particularly the mothers of Sunday school members, are cordially invited to attend.

The many Pass friends of Capt. and Mrs. Watson will regret to learn of their leaving here, where they have become endeared and highly regarded by everyone.

Miss Mary Miro, long-time resident of Blaimore, left by Thursday afternoon's train to take up residence in Calgary. Prior to leaving, she was feted by a number of her lady friends, when she was presented with a beautiful travelling bag. Miss Miro recently visited her sister, Mrs. R. Biell, at Rosalind, B.C.

MAY DAY RALLY AT BLAIRMORE WELL ATTENDED

An estimated five thousand men, women and children attended the big rally and mass meeting here on May Day. Lining up on main street and headed by the Pass Band and the flags of all the United Nations, the procession headed for the Blaimore stadium, where the assemblage was addressed by Angus Morrison, M.L.A. and secretary of District 15, U. M. W. of A.; John Stokluk, vice-president and organizer; Tom Uphill, M.L.A., of Fernie; and William Irvine, C.C.F. provincial organizer.

Mayor E. Williams acted as chairman. Resolutions were passed calling for the release of all anti-Fascists at present interned in Canada, and that the government wage total-all-out war, now that the result of the recent plebiscite released them from past commitments and promises. The workers also instructed their officials to forward a congratulatory message to the Russian government for their heroic stand against the Nazi invaders, and their fight to secure their own and our liberty.

Owing to rain the sports programme had to be cancelled.

Seeking to restrict commercial transactions on Sunday, the general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance of Canada, Rev. G. G. Webber, has drawn attention to the question of commercial advertising over the radio with an urgent appeal of support against it.

This spring's seal fishery in Newfoundland was about the worst on record. Only three ships went out, the Eagle, Ranger and Terra Nova, all old timers. Two ships returned with 3,000 and 6,000 seals. The Ranger went to Davis Jones' locker, but the crew were landed safely.

The regular monthly meeting of the Macleod-Crows' Nest Pass Ministerial Association was held at Pincher Creek on Monday. Rev. J. R. Hague, of Coleman, conducted the devotions; Rev. R. Axon, of Macleod, led the Bible study, and Rev. E. B. Arrol, of Blaimore, reviewed a portion of the book of Jeremiah, a "Prophet for a Time of War." It was decided to hold the next meeting at Mountain Mill.

There will be morning and evening services at Central United church on Sunday. The service in the morning at 11 o'clock will be a special Parents' Day service, when the children and young people of both Sunday schools will give a varied programme, which should be of unusual interest to parents. In the evening the theme will again be in keeping with Mothers' Day. A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present at both services.

PUBLIC NOTICE

I, Mike Ozar, of Bellevue, will not be responsible for any debts incurred by my wife hereafter.

Dated at Bellevue, Alberta, May 8, 1942.
M8-15-22] MIKE OZAR.

Evacuated from London, these English children have been provided with warm, well-made clothing supplied by the women of the Canadian Red Cross Society. In the thousands of Red Cross work rooms across Canada more than 6,800,000 pieces of clothing and hospital supplies were produced last year for distribution to the men of Canada's armed forces and to British civilian victims of the Nazi air raids. The Red Cross is now asking for $9,000,000 with which to continue this and other essential humanitarian work during the next year.

CHEERFUL MESSAGE TO A LOCAL FAMILY

On Thursday of this week, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wilson received the following intimation by telegram:

Ottawa, May 7, 1942.
Mr. J. B. Wilson, Blaimore, Alta.
Pleased to inform you that information has been received from the International Red Cross, quoting German information which states that your son R60855 Sergeant John Baird Douglas Wilson, is now a prisoner of war stop letter follows.

Chief of Air Staff.
Douglas was reported missing in action from Gibraltar many weeks ago and was presumed lost. Present advice is most cheering to his parents and brothers, and other relatives, as well as to all citizens of the Crows' Nest Pass. Should Douglas return, which we hope he will, he will have many a good story to relate of his experiences.

GOLF AND COUNTRY CLUB REORGANIZES

The annual meeting of the Blaimore Golf and Country Club was held recently at the Greenhill hotel, when a good attendance was on hand to make plans for the season of 1942. The following were elected to office: J. Charbonnier, honorary president; J. A. Brusset, honorary vice-president; H. Blake, president; J. R. Smith, Geo. Penn and Wm. Kerr, vice-presidents; W. L. Rippon, secretary; Reg. Jones, club captain; W. H. Turner, I. Hayson, H. C. McBarney and James Tutt, executive.

It is proposed to open the season with a club tournament on May the 10th. Members of the club and visitors will be able to obtain refreshments over each week end.

Mr. Charles Hughson is greenskeeper for the season, and Mrs. Hughson will be available for week-end or mid-week parties.

Any further information may be obtained from Mr. Rippon, the secretary.

THE RED CROSS CAMPAIGN

Starting May 11th, the Canadian Red Cross Society will ask the people of the Dominion to subscribe $9,000,000 to finance the work of the Society. The money will be used for food parcels for Canadian and British prisoners of war in Germany and Italy; comforts for the armed forces, navy, merchant marine, air raid sufferers, and hospital and medical supplies, disaster and emergency, including assistance to allied Red Cross societies, and blood donor service. All are vital functions of the Canadian Red Cross—each in itself plays an important part in the structure of this great service for suffering humanity.

As the war spreads throughout the world the tasks of relief assigned to the Society increase until today there is no sphere of war activity that is not benefiting from the good works of this great organization.

Not only are Canadians and Britons receiving the help of the Canadian people through the Red Cross, but supplies and comforts are always being sent to the armed forces and peoples of the United Nations. For example, the Society recently raised $750,000 to send medical and relief supplies to Russia.

The financial needs of the St. John Ambulance are also included in the budget of the Red Cross.

Shortly canvassers will call on the people of Canada to provide the $9,000,000 so urgently required to carry on the work of the Red Cross and when they call, householders and workers are asked to give generously.

PASS MUSICAL FESTIVAL

The seventeenth annual Crows' Nest Pass Musical Festival came to a close at Blaimore Wednesday night. It was a success in every particular and the sponsoring body is to be congratulated on its achievement. It is not an easy thing to maintain an institution such as a musical festival in wartime. This is a time of many distractions, of many counter-interests. Yet the Crows' Nest Pass festival association has "carried on" with determination and with an understanding of the value of music in times of stress such as these.

The day is long past when we look upon music as a luxury to be enjoyed by the few. Music is for the masses, a source of joy and power to the people, and should be viewed in that light. In maintaining their festival the Pass association is doing a real service. This year, members of the Air Force, including two bands, were heard, giving the festival added interest—Lethbridge Herald.

Mussolini has at last got in with his ilk in a doghouse.

Collective Security

The first Great War was a conflict waged to end all wars, and to make the world safe for democracy. It is not the purpose here to analyze the various causes that have brought the world to its present catastrophic condition. It will suffice to say that if there had been a unanimity of purpose on the part of all the free-loving peoples after the peace of Versailles we might not today be forced to endure a second cataclysm. Experience is a great teacher, and we can well profit from the knowledge gained by the tragic events of the past few years. Again we hear the oft-repeated phrase that there shall be no repetition of a struggle for world domination. The patent fact is that unless the democratic peoples of the world will stand firmly united, there can be no definite assurance of future peace. There is every reason to believe that the subjugated nations will enter into any plan that would lead to their national security in the future. The experiences they are now passing through would certainly warrant this conclusion.

World Revolution

In the last war, nations which fought with the Allied cause are now in league with the forces of destruction. The peoples who were our friends are now our enemies. The present war has been more fittingly termed a world revolution, as there are now few nations who are not directly or indirectly engaged in this life and death struggle. How are we to determine on whom we can depend to keep the peace in future? It would seem that only by the formation of a Commonwealth of Nations, closely knit in a common ideal and purpose, can we hope to maintain our freedom of thought and action, and guard ourselves against aggression. In such a covenant there could be no concept of neutrality or selfish isolationism, or rival nationalism. It must be created in a spirit that will not hesitate to make any sacrifice necessary to maintain a world at peace.

A Directive Force

It would appear fitting that the English-speaking democracies could well take a prominent lead in the direction of a force of world opinion that would never again countenance any act of aggression or any collective movement to disrupt the peace. The Atlantic Charter elaborated by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill is the initial step in this direction. The declaration was subscribed to by twenty-six United Nations, many of them suffering under the heel of the oppressor. It will require a strong directing force in the years ahead, and the closest form of collaboration. We shall have to guard against any injustice, either economic or social. The fundamental principle of democracy that all men as well as nations should enjoy equal opportunity must be maintained. Trade restrictions will of necessity have to be removed, and the principles of social justice extended to all nations. Only by setting an example of true democracy in our relations with other peoples can we be assured of a strong force of united nations that will stand firmly together to oppose the aggressor.

Must Use One Measure

Cord of Wood When Stacked Contains 128 Cubic Feet

How much is a cord of wood? In case you do not know: The War-time Prices and Trade Board has decided the point because a cord of wood has been far from a uniform measure in the past. A. R. Mackie, Saskatchewan prices and supply representative, announces:

According to J. McG. Stewart, coal administrator, a cord of wood from now on will be 128 cubic feet of stacked wood.

In the past, three and four-foot lengths were piled up and they measured the height of a cord of wood, but not necessarily the width. Three-foot lengths meant a one-foot block missing, and 20 or 30 of such lengths meant a fair-sized amount of wood missing.

There is to be one measure across Canada for a cord of wood and it is to be 128 cubic feet. Further, every primary producer or dealer in wood shall prepare an invoice to cover every sale of firewood with the invoice the quantity by cord, or fraction of a cord, sold and the invoice shall be delivered to the consumer along with the wood.

Sawdust is not regarded as firewood under the terms of the War-time Prices and Trade Board order.

Just One Letter

Not Painted On Rolling Stock Meant Saving For Railway

Now that salvage and economy are very much in the foreground, says J. C. K. in Marketing. I recall a story of one of the British railroads—the Great Western. A keen-witted clerk in the employ of the company submitted a suggestion that if the letter "R" were no longer painted on the company's rolling stock an appreciable saving might be effected. The suggestion was adopted, and after a time only the letter "G W" appeared on the rolling stock. The saving resulting the first year was £7,000.

Wanted To Be Clean

Commander Officer Took His Bath Before Going On Raid

Britain's Commandos aren't always as tough as they're made out to be. The last thing one officer did before he boarded the ship for a recent Boulogne coast raid was to take a bath.

"Just a precaution," he said. "If I'm taken prisoner, I at least want to be clean."

One hour later he was sitting below deck smugging his face and hands with burnt cork.

The Individual Citizen's Army

A Weekly Column About This And That In The Canadian Army.
By Anna Maurice Irwin

Very few people get to read their own "obituaries." Mark Twain did, and found his "greatly exaggerated." Mine said, very definitely, that last week's article was the last in the series named "The Individual Citizen's Army."

Well, the title is up to the Editor. As far as I am concerned the new series—if he uses it—will still be "The Individual Citizen's Army."

No Chief of the General Staff, no General Officer Commanding an Army in the field, no Commander of the Fleet can fight a war these days unless he has everyone at home spiritually in the Army or Navy with him.

That means we are all fighting. We need training, some of us one way, some another. We all want to help. But we can't help unless we know how.

So, if you'll let me, I'll see what I can find out about the ways in which we can "slope arms" in our daily life—always remembering that after we have learned to slope arms there comes the command "fix bayonets."

"Lead-swinging," as my old soldier knows, means a man who feels ill-fitted to get out of doing his regular duties. He is looked upon, at first sight, as a smart guy who has "put one over" the Medical Officer.

But, as the fair sex points out when referring to the order in which man and woman were created, second thoughts are best, and it is not very long before the "lead-swingers" fellow soldiers are full of scorn and contempt for him. They realize that in addition to putting one over the Medical Officer he is putting one over them—for someone has to do the duty he shirks.

The worst lead-swinger in the individual Citizen's Army—which is all of us—today is the man or woman who uses gasoline unnecessarily.

This morning as I came down to work I looked, idly at first, and then with mounting indignation, at the stream of cars passing with only one person in each. I have no doubt that you have felt the same way many a time.

Do you think the same way about it when you have an errand to do? Or do you just hop into the car and drive off?

Some little time ago one of these columns was devoted to the jauntiness of the Armoured Corps. They and the airmen who bomb Germany and the Philippines; they and the men who man the submarines and motor torpedo boats are the men we should save our gasoline for.

There is nothing very jauntily-looking about a soldier who has been taken prisoner or killed. I know—so do many of you—I have seen them. And men are going to be taken prisoner, and killed if their mobile forts—whether they be tanks, armoured cars, universal carriers, bombers or submarines become immobilized for lack of gasoline.

A horrible thought? Sure it is. But that is how close the war is to us. One extra joy-ride or one trip by car that could have been carried out afoot may mean the hair's breadth that separate life and death for the men in uniform.

So, walking to work, even walking to the movies, can be a form of war-work, a form of soldiering in the individual Citizen's Army.

And observing food and price regulations is another way of serving.

At Basic and Advanced Training Centres, in camp and on active service soldiers and sailors put in long hours at strenuous work. Their training simulates actual fighting—actual fighting burns up energy. To replace that energy good, hearty meals must be supplied. That's where the careful observer of the food regulations comes in. Every time the householder privates use a little less than their sugar ration or bake a cake with a substitute for sugar, they are releasing that much energy for Canada's "Men at Arms."

And the housewife Lance-Corporal—or is she at least a Major in your house?—who puts together a tasty mess of shank-bone, onions, carrots, a little—not too much please—turnip and a sage leaf or two instead of calling up the grocer for a can or two of this or that, enrolls herself in the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps by leaving just a little more metal available for arms, ammunition or even tanks.

Here's a list of kitchen ammunition. One cup of refined white sugar can be replaced by: maple sugar, one cup; maple syrup, one cup; honey,

WE'D LIKE TO TELL EVERYBODY ABOUT ALL-BRAN'S "BETTER WAY"

Says Mr. C. Boyer, Valleyfield, Quebec: "For many years we've enjoyed KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, the delicious cereal that keeps us regular... naturally, in muffins, in two convenient size packages, or ask for the individual serving package at restaurants. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada."

If you are troubled by constipation due to lack of the right kind of "bulk" in your diet? But remember, ALL-BRAN doesn't work like cathartics. It takes time. But it regularly and drink plenty of water. Get ALL-BRAN at your grocer's, in two convenient size packages, or ask for the individual serving package at restaurants. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

Is your Liver Poisoning You?

Are you sick and tired out every morning—always constipated—can't eat without pain and distress? Your liver is poisoning your system—permanent ill health may be the result!

● Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It supplies energy to muscles, and keeps your body healthy. Your liver lacks this energy and becomes enfeebled—your liver disappears. Again your liver must out its bile to digest food, get rid of waste and allow proper nourishment to reach your blood. If your liver gets out of order proper digestion and nourishment stop—you're poisoned with the waste that decomposes in your intestines. Nervous troubles and rheumatic pains arise from this poison. You become constipated, stomach and kidneys can't work properly. The whole system is affected and you feel "rotten," head-schy, back-schy, dizzy, tired out—a ready prey for sickness and disease.

Thousands of people are never sick, and have won prompt relief from their misery with "Improved Fruit-sives Liver Tablets." The liver is today one of the organs function normally and lasting good health results. Today "Improved Fruit-sives" are Canada's largest-selling liver pills. They're good! Try them yourself NOW. Let "Fruit-sives" put you back on the road to good health—feel like a new person. 25c. 50c.

"It's like 12, Always Fine Now"

Since I was twelve I suffered from constipation and never felt well. I started taking Fruit-sives and I can truly say they are wonderful! I feel like a new person and I enjoy life as I do now. I have never been sick since. Mrs. Florence Williamson, Montreal, Que.

"Run Down For Years, Has Period Health"

My health ran down and terribly nervous. My digestion was poor and I was always "run down." Fruit-sives made me better and I feel like a new person. I am now healthy and giving you my best wishes. Mrs. Roy Duganau, Chatham, Ont.

Grave Risks Are Taken To Publish News In Europe

London.—Death is the price thousands of readers of this news sheet in Belgium, Holland, Norway, France, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Yugoslavia and Greece gladly risk paying daily.

Death is the reward scores of men have risked and often received for printing these news sheets in hidden cellars by candlelight.

All of Hitler's Gestapo, all his ruthless gauleiters have failed to stifle the underground free press in German-occupied Europe.

Copies come out irregularly, but they come out.

If the editor and his staff are shot, others take their places.

The most famous of these is the revived "La Libre Belgique"—which the Kaiser sought for four years to drown in editorial blood.

Belgian sources say the paper flourishes today with its oldtime vigor although at least one editor and several distributors have been shot.

Each copy, handed from hand to hand, has "thousands" of readers. Sometimes it is baked into a loaf of bread; sometimes hidden between the leaves of some Nazi book.

For its editor there are no rewards except death. The articles are unsigned. There is no signature. Paper and presses are at a premium.

"Each aim issue contains news gleaned from British and American broadcasts.

There also are savage editorials denouncing Hitler's henchmen, instructions on how the populace should act and reports of sabotage.

This may be slim reading by Canadian standards, but it is desperately sought by the downtrodden peoples of Europe.

While "La Libre Belgique" is the most famous, foreign governments in London report that for every one underground paper of 25 years ago, there are 20 now.

Some are simply mimeographed sheets; some duplicated typewritten sheets; some not even that elaborate—just pieces of foolscap covered in longhand.

In Holland, "Parool" (the word) and a dozen less consistent hand-printed papers keep Netherlands' spirits up.

In Norway, mention of "Royal Post," most famous of Norwegian underground newspapers, makes Quilting grimace.

In Czechoslovakia "V Jih" (Forward) still is slipped under cushions on dark nights.

In Poland, "Walka" (the struggle) is the leader of several score of papers trying to undermine Nazi authority.

Both the Yugoslav and Greek free governments report anti-Nazi papers are circulating in their countries.

In France, several dozen underground papers annoy both the German conquerors and Vichy French. The one editor recently escaped to Britain one jump ahead of the Gestapo.

Most "freedom" editors aren't so fortunate.

RUBBER CONTROL

Further Restrictions On Use Have Been Announced

Ottawa.—Further tightening of control over use of reclaim rubber was announced by the Munitions and Supply department.

The department said Alan H. Williamson, controller of supplies, has advised manufacturers that reclaim rubber must not be used in the making of the following items:

Non-essential footwear, shoes, heels, sports goods, toys, non-essential drug sundries, rubberized fabrics for the raincoating trade, automobile topping and upholstery, quarterlining, lining for perambulators, garden hose, mats, matting, stair treads, tractor and farm implement tires and tubes, automobile parts and accessories, tube repair kits, car mats, automobile heater hose, automobile weatherstripping, running board and all gaskets and matting, defroster hose, battery boxes as original equipment for cars and trucks, and non-essential plumbers' supplies.

TROUBLE IN ITALY

London.—Rome radio, heard in London, revealed that Mussolini has admitted a serious internal situation in Italy. According to Rome radio, the Fascist dictator told Italy's district prefects that a lack of discipline and fraud has created an acute internal situation. Mussolini threatened "measurable punishment" to the guilty persons.

AN ASH HEAP

German Battle Port Of Rostock Has Been Destroyed

London.—The centre of the German Battle port of Rostock is an ash heap and fires still smoulder in the city which has been evacuated of all except firemen and a few military forces after heavy British bombing, reports reaching London said.

Photographs of the damage from the most intensive R.A.F. offensive against a single town, taken from British bombers after the second night's raid, showed fires so bright that planes could be seen on the airfield. A later picture the same night shows the entire town engulfed in flames and smoke.

Berlin correspondents of Swedish newspapers said the Baltic base and plane manufacturing centre was virtually leveled and uninhabitable. Evacuation of the 90,000 population became necessary, they said, because public services and food and water supply became impossible.

Effects of Britain's newest giant bombs were shown in the reports of terrified refugees reaching neighboring cities who said that great blocks of houses crumbled under the blasts and became tinder for incendiary bomb showers.

Price Control In U. S. Will Be A Boon To Canada

Ottawa.—Canadian business cast a glance back across six months of retail price control and generally found it good.

And the wartime prices and trade board, charged with keeping price ceilings in place, said its work has been effective in preventing an inflation spiral.

Business men and prices board officials alike accepted with satisfaction the United States announcement of price controls, on a basis similar to that employed in Canada since last Dec. 1.

One official of a manufacturing association said manufacturers generally are in support of the price ceiling because it prevents inflation, a condition which would be "far worse" than price control.

"What effect did the price freezing have on you financially?" he was asked.

"Many manufacturers suffered losses because they got their raw products from countries where price ceilings had not been established," he said.

"Tanneries and leather manufacturers who made purchases in the United States were hard hit. The cost of raw products went up in the United States but our prices were frozen here."

Establishment of a price ceiling in the United States would be a "great boon to Canadian manufacturers."

"The United States is 12 times larger in population than Canada and the countries are so closely related it was difficult to work out a price-freezing system independently," he continued.

"It will bring great relief to Canadian manufacturers who are largely dependent on the United States for raw products."

"How are retailers' gross sales holding up?"

"Sales are holding up well. The price ceiling has had no appreciable effect on sales."

"How are profits?"

"Retailers agree that the freezing of prices has affected their profits. They have had to absorb quite a bit of the 'squeeze' and profits are down."

The "squeeze" to which he referred was that caused when retailers found difficulty in maintaining their prices at the levels established during the basic period from Sept. 15 to Oct. 11. Manufacturers and wholesalers were required to co-operate with the retailer in keeping prices below the ceiling and the "squeeze" suffered by the retailer because of imposition of the ceiling was divided among them as far as possible.

OBJECT TO JAPS

Winnipeg.—Some 100 residents of St. Andrews and Lockport, market garden communities located about 20 miles north of Winnipeg on the west side of the Red river, have petitioned C. E. Graham, Manitoba representative of the British Columbia security commission, and Hon. James McLaughlin, Manitoba attorney-general, to keep Japanese families out of these districts.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

Ottawa.—Old age pensions are being paid to 185,922 persons in Canada and blind pensions to 6,243 persons. It was reported in a return made in the House of Commons.

BOMBING BRITAIN

Germany Using Guide Book To Locate Prominent Buildings

London.—Britain's small town dwellers have tightened up their air raid precautions, quietly determined to endure Hitler's threatened "Guide Book" bombings.

The German air force already has brought death and injury to historic spots such as Exeter, Bath, Norwich and York, and the Berlin radio has threatened a bombing of "every British building marked with three stars in Blackletter." (Blackletter is a European guide book for tourists, and three stars indicate spots of paramount interest.)

Informed quarters said this month's civilian death toll from bombings is likely to be the highest since last July.

Until the end of last month 43,822 were killed, 50,482 injured by air raids on Britain.

NO VOTE TAKEN

Cost Of Taking Ballot Boxes To Skenia Hiding Too High

Telegraph Creek, B.C.—This settlement in northern Skeena riding did not vote in the manpower plebiscite because, in the opinion of the chief returning officer it would have cost too much money.

The chief returning officer cancelled the poll because of what he termed the prohibitive price demanded by airlines for delivering ballot boxes.

Telegraph Creek is dependent on air service seven months in each year for its contact with the "outside."

Directs Commando Raids

Captain Lord Louis Mountbatten, cousin of the King, has been named chief of combined operations to supervise British commando raids. He will hold the acting rank of vice-admiral and the honorary ranks of lieutenant-general and air marshal. Here Mountbatten (left), poses with members of the crew of the aircraft carrier Illustrious. The black cat is the ship's mascot.

The Queen Wears A Maple Leaf

TEACHES NAVIGATION

Lieutenant Robert W. Southern, R.C.N.V.R., who has been appointed an instructor in navigation at King's college, Halifax. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Southern. Ottawa, Lieutenant Southern has been an officer in the R.C.N.V.R. since May, 1940. For several months he was stationed at Ottawa and later was on operational duty at sea as second in command of a corvette. He assumed his new duties at King's college, April 19.

NAVIGATION HAZARD

Ottawa.—Contract has been let to British Columbia Bridge and Dredging Co. to remove Ripple Rock, hazard to navigation in Seymour Narrows between Vancouver Island and the mainland. For many years marine interests have campaigned to have the dangerous obstruction removed. Many ships have been wrecked there.

ARMY TRANSFERS

Should Leave Family Behind When Moving From One Station To Another

Ottawa.—The national defence department said it is "suggesting" to all army ranks that when they are transferred from one station to another they leave their families and dependents behind.

The suggestion was made because of "shortages of housing accommodation in communities close to army training centres across the Dominion."

"The department feels it unfair for the soldier to move his family when there is no certainty that he will remain long enough at his new post to warrant the trouble gone to," a department statement said.

"Avoidable expense will have been sustained and his family's social life uprooted. Experience has shown that when moved a second time, soldiers generally leave their dependents in the new community, which means that they have to readjust their lives and that they are deprived of the friendships made earlier elsewhere.

Farm Machinery Comes In Range Of War Economy

Ottawa.—Farm machinery and equipment came within range of the wartime prices and trade board's economy and war conservation program.

An order issued by H. H. Bloom of Toronto, administrator of farm, road and municipal machinery and equipment, provides that wood or substitute materials must replace metal in a wide range of farm machinery—neck yokes, doubletree, rake bars for hay loaders, two-wheel farm trailers, reels for grain binders, outside livestock watering bowls and hog troughs.

"Except for wheels, axles and bearings, farm wagons will no longer be made of metal, and the metal parts of sleighs will be restricted to those for the runners," the announcement said.

The order bans use of rubber and 14 metals, including war-contraband copper and aluminum, in an extensive list of farm equipment items.

Exempt from this provision are rubber for use in cream separators and pumps, copper in the electrical systems of brooders and incubators, and tin as a protective coating for parts in contact with milk in milking machines, cream separators and surface coolers.

The board said provision has been made in the order for the administrator to grant special permission to manufacturers to use up such processed metals as they have on hand and which were originally intended for equipment and parts banned by the new order.

Joining hardware and reinforcing strips or struts of metals may still be used.

EXPORT PERMITS

Required On Tea And Coffee To Conserve Canadian Supplies

Ottawa.—The department of trade and commerce announced that tea and coffee will require an export permit before being exported to any country.

Tea was previously under export control, but was exempted from requiring an export permit when shipped to any part of the British empire or to the United States. This exemption now is cancelled, and tea requires an export permit to any destination.

"These two commodities were placed under export control in order to conserve supplies in Canada," a departmental statement said.

NAVY IN FILMS

Work Of Royal Canadian Navy To Be Dramatized

Ottawa.—The work of the Royal Canadian Navy is to be dramatized in a motion picture called "The Corvette," officials of the national film board announced.

Richard Rossen, Hollywood director, is in Ottawa arranging to make the picture in which prominent film stars will play leading roles.

COPY NAZI LAW

Vichy.—Taking a leaf from Hitler's book, Vichy extended its new anti-Semitic law to part of its African empire, Algeria. The Vichy minister of interior says the laws are designed to eliminate all Jewish influence from business life. The decrees permit the government to take over any Jewish business it desires.

Says Sole Aim Of Russia Is To Smash Germany

Moscow.—Premier Joseph Stalin in a May Day order of the day pledged that Russia has no territorial ambitions upon foreign countries and declared that the Soviet's sole aim is to liberate its lands from "The German Fascist blackguards."

Broadcasting his war report to the nation, the premier-defence commissar praised Great Britain and the United States for the increasing assistance he said they are giving Russia against the Germans.

He declared that Russia must "smash the German Fascist army and wipe out the German invaders to the last man if they will not surrender."

"There is no other alternative way," Stalin said that the only thing now lacking is the ability of the Red army men to utilize fully the first class technique which the fatherland is putting at their disposal against the enemy.

He ordered fighting branches of the Red army to master their weapons to perfection; told army commanders to become masters in leading their armies to smash the year of the final defeat of the German Fascists; and instructed men and women guerrillas to wipe out the staff and equipment of the enemy in the rear and "to spare no bullets against the invaders of our fatherland."

Stalin told his people that Britain and the United States are "giving our country more and more military assistance against the Fascist invaders; and that the Red army had forced the Fascists to 'retire' out of a considerable part of Soviet territory."

The Russian premier-defence commissar, broadcasting order of the day to the Soviet Union on May Day, declared that Britain and the United States occupy first place among the freedom-loving countries helping Russia against the invaders and said that the Russians are connected with those two allies "by ties of friendship and unity."

"It was his first order of the day since Feb. 23, the 24th anniversary of the founding of the Red army, when he confidently declared that the German invaders would be cast from Soviet soil in due time but warned that a "stern struggle" lay ahead."

After more than 10 months of war, he said, Russia has become considerably stronger, the Red army has become more organized and more powerful than was at the beginning of the conflict, and has "passed from the defence to a successful advance against the enemy troops."

"Hitlerite imperialism has occupied wide territories in Europe," Stalin declared. "But it has not broken the will to resistance of European peoples."

"The struggle of enslaved peoples against the regime of the German Fascist robbers has begun to take on a general character in all occupied countries. Millions of German soldiers and officers have become a general feature."

HELP IS NEEDED

More Classes Formed For Training Women In War Work

Saskatoon.—Bombed for two years by letters and vocational applications, pleas and appeals from women who wanted to work in war industries, W. A. Ross, Regina, regional director of war emergency training for Saskatchewan, has given in at last.

Yielding not so much to feminine pressure as to the need of the country for more trained hands, Mr. Ross said here that classes in machine operating for women would be started in Saskatoon and Prince Albert this month and that similar classes would be launched later in Regina and Moose Jaw. The Saskatoon class will be conducted in the engineering shops at Saskatchewan University, starting May 4. The Prince Albert class will begin simultaneously in the war emergency training school conducted in the northern city.

THE RED CROSS NEEDS FUNDS

The Canadian Red Cross Society find that they must raise a minimum of $9,000,000 in order to carry on their very important work during the present year. This is the purpose of the big drive starting Monday next, May 11th.

Other war services will be financed by the Dominion government, such as the Y.M.C.A., Salvation Army, etc., but the terms of the Geneva convention, under which the International Red Cross operates, requires the Society to be supported by voluntary subscriptions if it is to maintain its immunities under the conventions.

It is only through the Canadian Red Cross Society that Canadians may communicate with Canadian prisoners in enemy countries or send them and other British prisoners food to implement the pitifully slim diet upon which they must otherwise exist.

MEN ARE REQUIRED FOR IMPORTANT SERVICES

Air power is one of the key weapons in the United Nations armory. Its paramount importance in global warfare gives the United Nations an advantage now that United States, Great Britain and Russia plane factories are out-producing the Axis and the margin of superiority is growing daily. Planes of the United Nations will sweep the skies, blast enemy armament factories, stamp out undersea marauders with increasing ferocity. To man these planes young men are needed—highly skilled and daring. No single project of the United Nations is able at present to supply these men better than the vast British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. In the two years and four months since its inception, the Plan is in full operation. It is capable of still greater expansion.

Largely in recognition of this unequalled achievement, all United Nations with air training projects in operation on the North American continent are holding a conference in Ottawa this month to discuss plans for co-ordinating the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan with the air training programmes of the United States and other United Nations.

Men are required for three large and important services—navy, army and air force.

By proclamation, signed by William Aberhart, attorney-general, Monday, the fourth day of May, 1942, was ordered and declared a public holiday throughout Alberta for the planting of forest and other trees. The order was obeyed to such an extent that the banks closed, and who knows of any trees having been planted. Anyways, as far as Blaimore is concerned, there were some trees destroyed on Arbor Day, and fewer planted. Years ago, it was the rule that the afternoon of Arbor Day would be a holiday for the school children, provided they planted trees or shrubs in the forenoon.

On Wednesday morning a police officer met a young couple coming into town from the hillside. When asked what their mission was, one of them replied: "Oh, just come" from Sunday school."

Mrs. Gate was born at Crosby, Maryport, Cumberland, England, in 1874 and was married to Mr. Gate in 1893 in the same town. She came to Coleman to join her husband in 1903. She had been active in various lodge and community works. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. R. Thomas, Mrs. A. F. Short and Mrs. A. Hart, all of Coleman; and three sons, William and Harry at Coleman, and Joseph serving overseas. Her husband predeceased her in 1927. The remains were laid to rest at Coleman yesterday afternoon, following service held at St. Alban's church by Rev. J. R. Hague. A. E. If the decrease of motor traffic on streets really indicates a lasting resolution of motorists to conserve gasoline, the oil controller has had a great deal of success with his rationing system. However, the rationing will not achieve perfection until next January, when motorists of all categories will realize how truly humorous the controller is. The ration books are designed to last until March 31st, 1943, but in Ontario, at least, the department of highways sets a date in January as the deadline for buying new license plates. The driver who ignores the deadline renders himself liable to prosecution under provincial law; but if he buys his new license, the number will not correspond to that on his ration book, so he will not be able to buy gasoline.

"God Save the King." The sum of $45 was realized, which will go to the Red Cross National Campaign Fund. The Hillcrest branch plans on raising $300. At a recent meeting, plans for the campaign were made. The town will be canvassed for donations. Twelve dollars has also been raised for the purpose by pyramid teas.

Quite a number of farm people who usually have a cheery word and a joke, were in decidedly grumbling mood on Monday when they came in to vote. It made them mad when they are already short handed, to have to climb off machines, quit seeding, get cleaned up and come in to town to vote. And why did they have to do all this? Just because of Quebec. If it hadn't been for Quebec, they could have gone along comfortably with their seeding. They had some caustic comment to make about the Quebec tail wagging the Canadian dog. Nobody came flat out though to say what they thought should be done about the tail. The whole plebiscite business made them mad. They are told to put in a crop, and then stopped while they vote on the plebiscite. They are told to save gas, yet driving to the polls takes gas. All in all, they seemed to have piled up quite a bunch of legitimate grievances. But they came in and voted just the same.—High River Times.

A largely attended funeral was held from the United church here to the Cowley cemetery on Sunday afternoon last. Rev. W. H. Irwin, of Bellevue, performed the last rites. Like a shot came the reply: "Stop yapping and start scrapping, miss!"

Loely British film star, plays the leading role in "There Two Go!" the dramatic story of Canadian Red Cross work being shown during the national appeal for $9,000,000, which starts on May 11th.

A Scotch widow who kept a confectionery store in West Coleman, was being courted by an eligible Irish bachelor of Blairmore. He came to her shop every night at closing time, and she gave him her bag with the supposed-to-be day's takings to carry home away up the hill. The bag was heavy, and this prompted him to remark: "You surely do a big trade, seeing you always have such a heavy bag."

"Oh, yes," was the modest reply. "I have a pretty good business." But it wasn't until they were married that he discovered she had been giving him the shop scales weights to carry home every night.

The court trial was proceeding very smoothly until the lawyer attempted to bring out the important points of a conversation that Pat had had with the defendant. "Now, then," the lawyer asked encouragingly, "please tell the jury what you and the defendant talked about?"

"That I'll do," replied Pat. "We talked about ten minutes."

"No, no!" interrupted the lawyer. "I mean, what did you and the defendant talk over?"

"Oh, that!" replied Pat, calmly. "Sure and we talked over the telephone, sir."

It was great during the week to see the local Mounties putting in a little spare time sweatin' it off by cleaning up and beautifying the R.C.M.P. barracks surroundings. These are so well kept that it seemed impossible to recommend any improvements, but however good, there is always room for another effort. The magnetic influence of the boys' upper regions (bare buff) brought the sun's force out to benefit everybody.

Angus Morrison just seemed to have come down here to show Tom Uphill what really can be accomplished in this Alberta of ours in the way of developing an excess avoidopolis. Anyhow, apart from all jokes, we were pleased to see good "old" Angus, Alberta's only representative of labor, with us on May 1st, plus his pal, Tom Uphill, M.P. for the Fernie riding in the B.C. house. They were welcomed by thousands here, and both went away with stiff wrists.

"Now, Robert," said the teacher, "can you tell me what human nature is?"

"Yes, ma'am," replied Robert. "It's people 'fore they get into society."

Solves Old Problem

Oculist Has Succeeded in Developing Artificial Eye That Moves

An artificial eye that moves in conjunction with the real one, something doctors have been seeking for years, has been developed by a New Orleans oculist who reports its successful use in dozens of cases.

The eye is made of lucite, a commercial plastic which can be fitted to the muscles to permit motion.

Dr. Theodore J. Dimitry, director of the department of ophthalmology at Louisiana State University Medical College at New Orleans, has announced development of the moving eye after 35 years of attention to the problem.

He has not yet made his discovery available for commercial manufacture but has employed it in his private practice and in treatment of charity patients at the L.S.U. clinics.

No Vacation This Year

German Children Must Work in Factories And On Farms

German high school boys and girls will spend their summer vacations this year working in munitions factories under a plan mobilizing all German labor resources, according to Berlin dispatches to the Basel National Zeitung at Bern, Switzerland.

Younger students are being mobilized for farm work, and schools in some sectors will be closed immediately so they may go into field camps, the dispatches declared.

Within a few weeks it was said, there will be scarcely a German man or woman not engaged in some manner of war work.

The biggest gaps in the labor front, however, will be filled by increasing use of war prisoners and civilians imported from conquered lands, the dispatches reported.

SO YOU'RE GOING TO DO A PLAY?

I promised you a list of plays to read during the summer, both one and three acts. Here they are, and don't think they are difficult to secure. Next week, I'll give you details for that too. Here are the plays:

Three Act Plays

"The Little Foxes", a story of a woman who dominated all the other members of her family, who was ruthless, avaricious, and tyrannical. But retribution came in the end through her daughter. It's a thrilling play.

"The Male Animal", the story of a college professor who was a little out of the usual run and how things did get stormy, but later turned out alright.

"Ethan Frome", a story of a triangle which ended in tragedy, but every line grips at your heart.

"The Talley Method", the story of a woman who made up her mind that she didn't want to marry her fiance after all, but was good friends with his family.

"Life With Father", a comedy, the story of a son whose father still insisted on ruling the home. It is a riot.

"Arsenic and Old Lace", now being made into a movie, is the story of two older maiden ladies who rent out rooms and what happens to the roomers after they drink some elderberry wine. Good mystery.

"Ladies in Retirement", now made into a picture, the story of wealthy lengths a woman will go to protect her sisters. Good mystery story.

"The Lost Colony", written by Paul Green when the people in Roanoke Colony wished to celebrate the 350th anniversary of the coming of Raleigh's followers years ago.

There are many others. If you are interested write to the various publishers and ask for copies of their catalogues, and to have your name placed on the mailing list for regular bulletins.

One Act Plays

From Samuel French the other day, I received a bundle of plays either non-royalty or on a royalty holiday. I am here giving you a list and price of copies:

"Mrs. O'Leary's Cow", comedy, five women, two men, budget play, seven copies at 30c each to produce play.

"A Ghostly Evening", comedy, five women, three men, budget play, rollicking play.

"The Phantom Gentlemen", melodrama, three women, two men, budget play.

"The Ghost Named Henry", three women, three men, Scotch comedy, budget play.

"Curse You Jack Dalton", four women, three men, budget, old fashioned melodrama.

"She Was Only A Farmer's Daughter", five women, three men, old fashioned melodrama, budget.

"Up In Arms Affair", one woman, four men, budget, mystery comedy.

"Sister Sue", four women, four men, comedy of youth, budget, good for young people.

Plays on royalty holiday until July 1, 1943. One copy for each member of the cast must be purchased to secure right to produce from the publisher.

"Frederick", three women, five men, good for young people. A sixteen-year-old boy wants to be an actor. His parents object. It works out.

"Where the Buffalo Roam", three women, three men. The story of an English woman who comes to visit relatives on the prairie.

"Little Darling", two men, four women. A younger sister keeps her sister's dates arranged and to suit her own ideas. Good for young people.

There are many others which will be found on the pages of the catalogues. I mentioned the above, having read them. I think younger people would enjoy working them out.

Growth Of Crops

Legume Inoculation And Supply Of Nitrogen

For many centuries it has been recognized that plants belonging to the legume family—beans, peas, clovers, vetches, alfalfa and others—differ in a striking way from other cultivated plants in the effect of the growth of crops the state of fertility of the soil. Whereas all non-legumes are dependent upon the supply of nitrogen in the soil, the legumes are able to draw on the unlimited quantity of this element in the air.

In order to make use of the nitrogen in the air, legumes require the co-operation of bacteria, and that without the proper bacteria they are forced, like non-legumes, to depend upon the nitrogen in the soil. These useful nitrogen gathering bacteria, if present in the soil, enter the roots of the legumes, where they grow and multiply, stimulating the root to grow a small knot or tubercle, commonly called a nodule, at the point at which they enter.

Just how this inoculation with its beneficial effects is effected is fully explained in the War Time Education Series Pamphlet No. 32 "Legume Inoculation," which may be obtained free by writing to the Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Explanations and Comments

The Traders Cast Out of the Temple, Matthew 21:12-14. The top of Mount Moriah, one of the hills of Jerusalem, had been levelled and then enlarged by building up walls from the Valley of the Kedron and filling in. This whole enclosure, nearly a thousand feet square, was called the temple. Terrace upon terrace rose the various courts—first the Court of the Gentiles, then the Court of the Women, next the Court of Israelites, and last of all the Court of the Priests. Within the latter, in the northwestern part of the entire area, rose the sanctuary, or temple proper itself. When the temple was being built, so great was the reverence for the House of God that the blocks were made ready in the quarry so that they could be put together without the sound of a hammer. But now in the first court, the Court of the Gentiles, there were sellers of doves for sacrifice and money-changers who, as Jesus said, were making the Lord's house a den of robbers instead of a house of prayer. (Isa. 56:7).

Money-changers were a necessity, but they were not necessary within the temple courts. The temple toll of a half-shekel was paid at the Passover feast, and there were also contributions to be made for the morning and evening sacrifices, all of which had to be paid in Jewish money. "We can picture to ourselves the scene," writes Dr. Eidersheim: "The weighing of the coins, the deductions for loss of weight, the arguing, disputing, bargaining—and we can realize the terrible unholiness of our Lord's charge that they had made the Father's house a mart and place of traffic."

In righteous wrath Jesus drove out the traders and overthrew the tables of the money-changers. That was marvellous power which caused so many to retire before the moral force of One! The "Gentile Jesus, meek and mild" was also, when occasion called for wrath, "a consuming fire." In King Lear, when the Earl of Kent desires to attach himself to the exiled king he gives as his reason, "You have that in your face that I would fain call master-authority." This master-authority was in the face of Christ, and all yielded to it without a protest.

Health LEAGUE OF CANADA presents TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST

WATCH YOUR DIET

Are you a Daygroom Humbug, grabbing a cup of coffee for breakfast and dashing madly out the door?

What did you have for breakfast this morning? Orange juice and coffee? Maybe just toast and coffee. Perhaps nothing at all! That's a bad habit, according to the Health League of Canada.

Between dinner and breakfast is the longest gap in time that comes between any meals and when you get up in the morning your stomach is nearly empty. Therefore, it is pointed out, you have no food to call on as a source of energy all morning, and your work and all your activities will suffer.

The Health League advises a fruit or fruit juice first for breakfast. Next, you should have either cereal with milk or cream or some cooked dish of eggs or meat, like sausage or bacon with or without pancakes. Toasted whole wheat bread is better than ordinary white bread, because it has more Vitamin B.

One of the most important food elements in breakfast, for adults and children both, says the experts, is milk. Plenty of it should be available for cereals or cocoa or just to take plain, along with the above-suggested food.

CHAPTER XX.

As Ramsome turned into the lane, he saw the group of figures out by the old stone slave quarters. Huddled together were the Shadwell servants and he could hear their muted wailing.

As he took the stairs rapidly, Ramsome knew that it was over. Dr. Forrester came slowly from Maris Randolph's room. His shoulders sagged and his head was bent. He was thinking that with all of the knowledge of medical men, and the science of this modern age, it had been impossible to keep Maris here.

He heard Ramsome's quick step and came forward to lay his hand on the young man's arm. It had been years since he had seen Ramsome. The boy had stoically gone through childhood accidents without whimpering. Together they went downstairs to the living room and seated themselves together for a moment.

"It is better this way, Ramsome. Only Maris and I knew how she suffered at times."

In the days that followed, Tamar was like a wraith. Ramsome knew that she had not allowed herself the solace of tears in the presence of her father. The house was different, with its group of neighbors and the friends of long years coming to pay their last respects. Tamar stayed in her room and Ramsome's heart ached for her. She was so white and so silently bearing her grief. Excepting to see him for a brief moment, she had asked to be alone.

Shadwell will never be the same again, people told one another. For even from her invalid's room, Maris Randolph had been loved and recognized by Tahlahneka. Even Shadwell's poorest days, she had done little services for the needy.

Sitting in her chair and looking toward the Chestate, Maris had knitted and stitched layettes for babies, made warm shawls for elderly women who needed them and given from their own small stores to poverty-stricken families.

She had sent flowers from their garden to the sick and to the churches; and she had listened to many stories of broken families, giving comfort and help when it seemed as though it were impossible to comfort and help.

And now Tahlahneka was paying its tribute to Maris Randolph. The people came in streams to the house. Tamar heard them going in and out, the drive was never empty those two days.

Tamar made herself move about, trying to do the necessary things for her father's sake. She must keep up for him.

After the great house was silent and empty, Tamar realized that many little things which her mother had said to her, had been said in preparation of this time which she knew would come. In spite of all of Maris' teachings, Tamar's body ached with grief.

Her eyes burned with the tenderness of all the unshed tears held in abeyance. Unchecked, she knew they must wash out all of her determination to be of comfort to her father. She wanted to throw herself in his arms and become the hurt child once more that he could soothe. Phoebe watched this reaction of Tamar's and said: "I ain't nat'chal. No one can hold up lak dat."

Phoebe often sat now before the logs in the ancient fireplace in the end of the kitchen. It had been years since a fire had burned there, but she must have something to remind her of the old days. The new order was so unbearable. "Min Maris, mah angel chif, tell God to sen' down some comfot fo' Tamar! Dat chile am gwine break, leas'n yo' do it soon."

Phoebe had tried to talk with Tamar, but the girl was too bitter and hurt to listen. "Please, Phoebe, I know that you intend to be kind but I'd rather hear this by myself."

This afternoon Phoebe welcomed the ring of the telephone. Maybe it was Ramsome. She hurried to pick it up hopefully. Maybe Mr. Ramsome would come out tonight and sit with Tamar and her father at the dinner table.

Phoebe scowled as she heard Christopher Sande's voice. He had sent flowers, but had not appeared during the week. She said very carefully, looking toward the stairs: "No'm. No'm. Miz Randolph ain't home to nobody. Nobody but jes' her own folks. Ah'll tak a message foh yo'."

"Christopher?" came the sharp note of Tamar's voice on the extension upstairs in her room. "Phoebe, I'll take my call, please," she said severely.

Phoebe clicked the receiver sharply. She stormily lifted it silently. "Dat dat man! Ah knows Miz Maris didn't lak him," she said to herself.

"What is your message, Christopher?" Tamar's voice was shaking. "Oh, Tamar, I've wanted to come to see you. I come, honey, stay away. May I come tonight?"

Phoebe grunted into the telephone, then stared at it aghast. She clasped her free hand over her mouth. "The man had no manners. Wantin' to pay a social call on Tamar, do he? Dat's what kin' ob man he am," she thought.

"I'm sorry, Christopher. I'm not seeing any one just yet."

Phoebe gingerly replaced the telephone and crept silently down the hall. Maybe it would be better for her lam' to see someone—but not Mr. Christopher Sande.

Phoebe dropped her head back on the old rocker's head rest and gazed thoughtfully into the snapping pine logs. She sprang to her feet and called to Aristotele who was bringing in an armload of wood.

"Go ketch up dat ol' hen I pinterd out las' night. Ah'll pop her in de kettle." And "If Miz Ramsome Todd should accidentally drop her dia way 'tnight, we'll have stuffed hen and dresin'," she added to herself.

Phoebe, quietly went back into the hall and called Ramsome's office number. A broad grin swept over her face as she went back to the kitchen. She set out the box of sage and the celery for the stuffing and began crumbling corn bread and biscuits.

A good dinner. That's what they all needed. All week the food had been sent down to the servants—good food that was brought in by friends, that had remained untouched. If only Tamar and her father would get outdoors and walk a bit, they'd both be hungry.

Phoebe's philosophy was based on the fundamental principles of life: food, sleep, exercise and love. Somehow they all mixed up together, and where one was absent the others were bound to fall short of their potentialities.

Tamar knew that she must get out of the house this afternoon. Her confining walls haunted her. She slept fitfully at night, waking and going to her mother's room almost every night since she had left them. Once she had found her father there, kneeling beside Maris' bed, and had slipped away without his knowing.

Her father was going presently to the Cricket Hill. She had thought it was the best thing for him, when he had mentioned it.

It was while she dressed that she remembered the events of the day preceding her mother's death. They returned to her with a rush of vividness, and she was stilled to think that she had forgot all about them.

Her hand that held the hairbrush fell indifferently. What difference did it make? Tamar slipped into a woolly blue sweater. It was cooler today. She could see that the magnolias in the yard bowed their heads to a strong breeze, and the row of poplars swayed together. She shivered. Perhaps if she had a cup of warm tea with her father, it would be good for both of them.

She ran downstairs and stopped suddenly on the threshold of the kitchen. It was bright with firelight from the logs.

Phoebe lifted her smiling face. "Come in, chile. Don't the logs look fine, a-snappin' away?"

"Yes, Phoebe," Tamar came in slowly. Poor Phoebe. She was trying so hard to keep her own grief under cover.

"I believe I'll make a little tea and have it ready when Dad comes down," Tamar said.

Phoebe went to the range and lifted a kettle of water. The steam rose in a cloud.

Tamar said her father had their tea in the kitchen, sitting in front of the fire, in the old white chairs. Phoebe served them some little filled cookies and cautioned them about spilling their appetites.

"Ah'stuffin' that ol' hen that's been a struttin' 'n' aroun in his pride. We goin' to eat 'n' he'll be no triffin' ol' hen goin' to git dea' ob Phoebe. Ah knows she's been an idlin' aroun'."

Tamar stood on the verandah and watched her father get into the car and drive away. The sun had gone out of sight and it suddenly seemed as though it might rain. Just in one week the weather had changed.

She went into the kitchen hallway and fumbled into the little cloak room for her raincoat and helmet. No need to get wet, although she loved walking in the rain.

Phoebe heard her coming toward the kitchen and went about clearing up her work table. "Goin' fo' a 'll walk home? Min' yo' don't get yo' feet wet. De telephone?"

"I'll answer it, Phoebe," Tamar went back to the hall. It was Ramsome. His voice sounded fresh and eager.

"I have news for you, Tamar. May I come out tonight?"

"Wait until I can talk with your father," this low voice broke in. "It's pretty important."

Tamar spoke hesitantly: "Yes, do come this evening." Ramsome was like one of the family, and she suddenly felt a very much to see him. "Yes, Ran," she answered on swiftly. "Come in time for dinner." She went outdoors with the portent of his words quickening her thoughts. What had he discovered?

Old-Time Blacksmith Able To Repair Farm Implements

A new England community is advertising for a blacksmith. In the last few years, some blacksmiths have been travelling around with shops in a trailer. But 1942 is a different year. Blacksmiths are coming into their own. Not so much for horseshoeing, although the United States 14,000,000 horses and mules will have to be shod. The important point is that new farm machinery will be scarce and expensive. The old-time smith, able to mend, patch and invent—will be needed to help 8,000,000 farmers get the fullest use from precious metal.—Christian Science Monitor.

LOVELY CURTAINS ARE EASY TO MAKE

Spring Style Wears Corset

What could be more charming than these fresh, flowing curtains of white organdie, crowned with artificial flowers?

You can make them easily yourself—ruffles, swag and all—with a few professional hints.

Your swag is nothing but a straight piece of goods about one and a third times the length of your valance board, and twice as deep as the finished swag.

You snip off its ends on a slant and cut the lower edge in a broad scallop. Sew the ruffle to the lower edge and stitch tape to the top edge; then drap swag and tack tape to valance board.

Measuring the side draperies, add 2 inches for shrinkage and take them up in a tuck near the top. When you sew the ruffles on allow plenty of fullness at the corners to prevent "hogging."

Simple, with our 32-page instruction booklet to guide you! Shows with diagrams and pictures how to make swags and cascades, fitted valances, French pleats, cornices and many lovely curtain and drapery styles.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "New Ideas in Making Curtains and Draperies" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

THE PRINTER'S ERROR

The Owen Sound Sun-Times says: According to the old gas, if a doctor makes a mistake, he buries it; if a lawyer makes one he collects more fees for the appeal; if a judge makes one he eventually becomes a precedent; if a clergyman makes one he doesn't end out until he's in the next world. But let a printer make one—ye gods!

Gardening

Spread Sowings

Gardeners are advised to divide their seed into at least three parts, sowing a third as soon as weather permits, a third a little later and the balance at the very tail-end of the planting season. In this way, if frost does cut down the first batch, there will be more plants coming on and the season will be lengthened by the last part of the garden sown.

When this practice is carried out with vegetables, too, it spreads the harvest season over several weeks. It is best to have beans, carrots, beets, corn and such things coming on in several stages, so that they will always be at their best for the pot.

Continuous Bloom

The first objective of brand-new gardeners is usually a continuous display of bloom. This requires a bit of planning, especially to get some-thing showing during the very early part of the season, and also for the tail-end, after the first frost or two.

In this planning a good Canadian Seed Catalogue will be of immense help as it gives the time of blooming for each variety, the color, height, hardiness and other pointers.

An Early Start

An extra early start can be obtained by using well-started plants either out of open own greenhouse or hotbed, or purchased in flats from seedsmen or nurserymen. With flowers these plants are just about ready to bloom when bought. Indeed some of them have the old bloom on when they start in the boxes.

Experts, however, advise against leaving this bloom on at transplanting. It puts a strain on the plant and is apt to delay growth. Pinched off, the plant soon recovers from the shock of transplanting and will make stockier and larger growth.

A few perennials like the dwarf Phlox and Iris help out with early bloom. These will come along just a few weeks after the tulips and the crocuses. The middle part of the season is easy. Then practically all of the annuals are at their best. Towards the end of the season, Salvia, Cosmos, English Marigolds, late Petunias and Asters will keep up the show, some of the hardier ones indeed standing a little frost. Not daunted at all by the first cold, and in fact able to survive from five to ten degrees of frost, will be the hardy, outdoor Chrysanthemums, the late Dahlias and any other late flowers with tough, woody stems.

To keep razor blades sharp, it is recommended that you use an ordinary six-ounce drinking glass after each shave. It takes only half a minute to rub it around inside the glass while holding the glass under the hot-water faucet. Never use cold water, as it chills the steel. Rubbing the blade inside the glass does not take away any metal from the cutting edge, but keeps it smooth and sharp. A blade can be made to last three to five months.
